The last act...

We assemble for the final call

Our script was taken in good stride,

Tragedy and comedy both we played well.

Now we stand for the announcement,

Always with us, our directors,

Who confirm the role well learned.

Of classical antiquity we assent:

The universal theater presents

More complex plays than the scene

In which now we act.

Our lesson learned, we claim our fame-

Opening night is successful.

Now to stand the test of time,

The longest run awaits us,

As players we will further perform

And let this world no longer be

A stage of impoverished ignorance.

planned for improved facilities

Meeting every December, March, and June, the Laurel Valley Joint Board of School Directors made many significant decisions in the past year. In conjunction with the Operating Committee, which meets the third Tuesday of every month, the board took action on several important issues.

The board unanimously approved an application for federal assistance under the Economic Opportunity Act. The money will be used to finance an all-out war on the reading and emotional problems which keep children from learning. The board members feel that many of these problems can be overcome with individual and specialized attention.

The board also approved contracts for the construction of an athletic field and a storage garage. An agreement with Indiana State College to provide student teachers was another measure which received approval.

Miss Margaret Boyle, secretary to the Joint Board, makes out the payroll, attends all board meetings, is responsible for the bookkeeping work, and collects the information to complete the many state forms.

Reverend James Leitch--president of the Joint Board, Miss Margaret Boyle--secretary to the Joint Board, and

Mr. Tony Carosella--chairman of the Joint Operating Committee, look over the treasurer's report.

ADMINISTRATORS provided

Mr. John D. Jack, Supervising Principal

Controlling the deals of the Laurel Valley Joint School System is Mr. John D. Jack, an educator who has worked very hard to bring Laurel Valley a fine educational system. He has the great responsibility of the welfare, the education, and the supervision of seventy-three professional and non-professional employees and 1519 students.

This great task presents many duties for the chief administrator. Some of the more pertinent ones are presenting the budget to the Board, examining new textbooks and visual aids, inspecting buildings and arranging for their care and maintenance, and determining school policy. Mr. Jack frequently observes both teachers and students in classroom situations in order to deliberate on new techniques and teaching methods. Mr. Jack holds Masters degrees from the University of Michigan and Penn State University. Mr. Jack, respected by student body and faculty alike, resides in New Florence with his lovely wife.

This familiar smiling face is that of Mrs. Irene L. Beard. Supervising the many phases of the elementary program keeps her busy. Checking teachers' attendance reports, arranging educational meetings, handling the bus schedule, and conferring with parents are just a few of a supervisor's duties.

Somehow Mrs. Beard finds the time to speak before many organizations requesting her services. The student body and faculty will long remember the bright spot Mrs. Beard's humor created in their day and the prime example of mannerly conduct she maintains at all times. Mrs. Beard, a graduate of Indiana State College and the University of Pittsburgh, holds B. S. in Ed. and M. of Ed. degrees.

Mrs. Irene L. Beard, Elementary Principal

leadership for educational achievement

An important person in the life of every high school student is the principal. Mr. Pickup, in addition to his regular duties, gladly consults with students and discusses any problems that may arise. He enjoys working with the Student Council in organizing the extracurricular program.

His regular duties include the supervision of the course of study, recommendations to the Board of Education on matters of improving the educational system, and preparation of the program of studies. He attempts to co-ordinate the many services that our school system offers in order to meet the real needs of the L. V. students.

Well liked by both faculty and student body, Mr. and Mrs. Pickup reside in Bolivar with their three children. Mr. Pickup holds a B. S. degree from Indiana State College and an M. Ed. degree from the University of Pittsburgh. Presently he is continuing his work at the University towards his doctorate.

Mr. Fred M. Pickup, High School Principal

Perky Miss Linda Magnani takes any task in stride. Even during the busiest periods, this secretary keeps office confusion to a minimum.

A busy and reliable secretary is Mrs. Lana Gale Lear. Never a day goes by without her preparing a bulletin or school form.

LANGUAGE ARTS encouraged students

Between classes Mrs. Chisnell can be seen scurrying through the halls with her collection of books and papers, necessary items for her senior English classes which stress both creative writing and literary interpretation.

Mrs. Hornack, speech therapist, points out to Aaron Shomo the location of the vocal cords. Mr. Tov, reading instructor, is very interested in his students' ability to speak clearly.

to think intelligently and imaginatively

Language Arts...Through speaking, reading, listening, and writing, the English and Foreign Language Departments provided a wide variety of opportunities for instruction in the arts of communication. English classes studied literature, gave oral and written book reviews, wrote research papers, prepared speeches, and listened to records. Students found their work carefully laid out for them in an atmosphere that challenged effort, showed them how to apply it, and gave them the satisfaction of proving their competence.

This year language classes had the good fortune to use a new laboratory which permitted practice of conversation as well as mastery of grammar. Besides Spanish, a second language, German, was added. The students enjoyed listening to recordings and using the microphones in the lab to practice correct pronunciation.

Miss Long and Mrs. Peters practice using the console in the new language lab.

Science and Mathematics...Science is a field for everyone and anyone who is curious about why and how things happen. Everything that happens has been caused by something else, and part of the scientist's job is to try to understand this relation. Through instruction in biology, physics, and chemistry, startling aspects of worldwide consequence are revealed about this age of scientific advancement. The science of numbers and how they work is exciting, very much alive, and as useful and practical as any tool. Through capable teaching, the classical branches of mathematics and their most up-to-date advances take understandable form. Curriculum offerings include algebra, geometry, trigonometry, and advanced math.

The curriculum at L. V. was planned so that every student received carefully guided instruction in these two challenging areas. The programs regulated the depth with which the student studied in both fields. Every individual was exposed to the basic concepts, but only his ability limited his depth of study.

SOCIAL STUDIES developed a keen

Mr. Thomas M.
Bryson
Bachelor of Science

Mr. Stanley E.
Dohoda
Master of Science

Geography and history are made more interesting by developing relationships between these fields. Mr. Hiner and Mr. Pudliner, two of L. V.'s well known members of these departments, share a common interest in their teaching areas.

Along with learning to operate a car, a good driver must also know what goes on under the hood. Mr. Perian, who is deeply interested in the mechanism of engines, points out to Naida Karoly and Dave Mundorff, senior driver ed students, some of the parts of the motor.

interest in man's past, present, and future

Social Studies...In the Geography Department courses enable students to correlate important historical events with the geography of the land. In civics classes freshmen study the historical, developmental, and operational features of our government on the local, state, and national levels. In Pennsylvania history the names of important statesmen, significant dates matched with their achievements, and the facets of the state's culture are stressed. In world culture courses, stress is placed on the study of significant civilizations of past years. In economics and P. O. D. the nation's economy and the challenging problems facing the United States government receive careful attention. Finally, in world geography the historical periods and man's relationship to his environment are tied together.

Mr. Richard H. Hiner

Mr. Carl A. Perlan
Bachelor of Science

Mr. Ernest Pudliner
Bachelor of Science

"Lights out! Quiet everyone!" are familiar words around 212. Mr. Bryson makes history come to life through the use of many historical films.

Seniors will long remember the interesting discussions led by Mr. Dohoda in P. O. D. classes. As coach and junior high guidance counselor, many students have benefited from his leadership and his counselling.

SPECIALIZED DEPARTMENTS provided

Mr. Jerry Allen

Bachelor of Science

Miss Janet E.
Knupp
Master of Science

In Special Education, Mr. Jones develops the potential abilities of his students to permit them to live successfully in today's world.

Home Ec instructors, Mrs. Spory and Mrs. Bennett, always take a special interest in teaching the teen-agers to sew. The girls selected a variety of both patterns and materials for their clothing projects.

Seniors often confer with Miss Knupp, guidance counselor, about college admission or future employment problems.

educational and practical training for all

Mr. Pahach, wood shop instructor, demonstrates the band saw to Mr. Allen, metal shop instructor.

Mrs. Mabon and Mr. Sutter operate the gestetner in the machine room.

Special Education...Students learn to live with others and to cope with problems that they will have to face during life. This group studies English, mathematics, as well as social studies; and they also learn to develop a sense of responsibility so vital in adult living.

Homemaking...The homemakers enroll in two main courses, sewing and cooking. To become talented cooks, the girls learn to prepare well-rounded menus containing food nutrients. The students also make clothes for themselves and others.

Business Education...Classes in typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, business mathematics, business English, junior business training, salesmanship, business law, and clerical practice form the basis of this course of study. Students learn of the job opportunities, the job requirements, and the importance of their jobs.

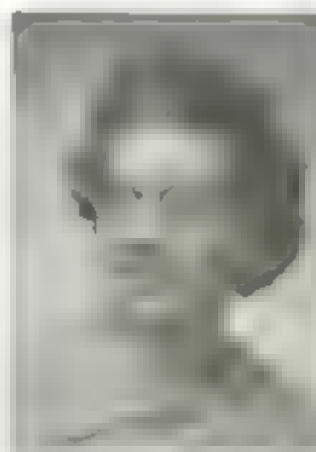

Industrial Arts...In wood and metal shops and mechanical drawing classes boys learn to weld, to turn out beautiful pieces of furniture, and to master mechanical drawing techniques for use in the engineering field.

MUSIC, ART, and the LIBRARY

Mrs. Bauman, well known both as an artist and an instructor, helps teenagers develop their talents and skills.

Mrs. Lowry, school librarian, stamps new books that have just come in. Because research in many areas is so pertinent to the acquisition of knowledge, Mrs. Lowry combines organization with efficiency.

Miss McKinney's smiling face is well known around L. V. as she continually works to keep each student healthy, happy, and peppy.

added pleasure to the goals of youth

Art...Art instruction encourages students to create, observe, and express their thoughts with pencil or brush. The students also acquire knowledge about famous painters.

Library...Here students find reference and critical materials needed for themes and other assignments. The library is truly an important section of the high school.

Music...In band and chorus students are acquainted with music of various types. Each year outstanding programs are prepared for Christmastime and for the spring concert.

Physical Education...Gym and health classes permit students to grow mentally and physically. Good sportsmanship as well as co-operation is stressed. Teams participate in snowball, football, basketball, volleyball, softball, and wrestling contests.

Mr. Hall and Mr. Gorirossi, music supervisors, are having a friendly talk before the next class.

Mrs. Thelma M.

'66 LAUREL is the result

Judy Williams, editor of the '66 Laurel, filed papers in all of the drawers and cabinets in the office.

After months of hard work and worrying, the Laurel staff was rewarded when the final pages of the '66 Laurel were finished in February. The relief expressed by everyone, including Mrs. Chisnell, quickly changed to regret that another year had gone so swiftly. Most staff members remembered how Judy organized sections of the book, planned picture schedules, and kept the work on schedule. Writers worked hours on write-ups and layouts and were constantly aided by Mrs. Chisnell. Typists became accustomed to typing a number of pages in a day, and Dave Mundorff, the photographer, remembered the days he carried camera equipment around and through L. V. No one will forget the Christmas party, munching on cookies in the Laurel office, and examining new pictures when they arrived.

Laurel staff--Madeline Darty, Genevieve Reven, Dave Mundorff, Betty Kline, and Gloria Jean Heming donated hours of time to finishing the Laurel on schedule.

Madeline was in charge of the typing and Genevieve, Betty, and Gloria Jean were her assistants.

of months of hard work

Andrea Cunningham and Carol Craig spent eighth periods sorting pictures and drawing up layouts.

Nalda Karoly, co-editor of the yearbook, and Gladys Gross measure the size of pictures for the layout sheets. Later on Carol Rummel (not pictured) joined the staff as a writer.

Lorraine Cunningham, Tom Gibson, and Dan Kelly were the runners-up in the contest. Armed with subscription blanks and magazine lists, they went forth and accomplished their mission.

This year the Magazine Campaign was sparked with enthusiasm from all corners of the school. Many homerooms had sales of over $200. Total sales of $2,283.98 for the campaign topped the goal by $783.98. Such a fruitful venture was made possible with the help of students such as Bruce Detwiler and John Karoly, the first and second place prize winners. Congratulations and thank-yous were extended to all who aided in making the Magazine Campaign a success. Room 107 with Mr. McCreery in charge won the ice cream party with sales of $398.53.

John Karols, second place winner, and Bruce Detwiler, first place winner, received watches as rewards for their salesmanship in the Magazine campaign. Here Judy Williams presents both boys with their prizes.

Inquisitive Minds Produced Laurel Leaf

Having good ears and noses for news, Betty Elme, Vickiavanaugh, and Ken Dick uncovered the many interesting articles for the weekly paper. Using their inquisitive minds, the reporters gathered the news and wrote it into interesting paragraphs of reading for Friday's paper.

During the first semester, Greg Yeager and Dave Mundorff could be found bending over the gestetner running off the Laurel Leaf. Second semester duplicators, Bonnie Geyer and Marge O'Shell, quickly became engrossed in the process and began turning out the school paper in full force.

A Weekly Newspaper

Hard work went into every page so that the students could be brought up to date on matters that concerned the school and the students. Co-operation given to the reporters and the capability of the staff played major parts in the success of this newspaper. Produced weekly, the paper contained the menu for the following week, news related to the school and nearby communities, and the results of the different sports our school participated in. Those who have read the Laurel Leaf can say it contained quite a bit of news they were glad to hear about.

Every week Madeline Darby, editor, and Genevieve Reven, co-editor, could be found checking over the past Laurel Leafs to find quicker and more efficient ways to produce the weekly paper.

Nancy Thiel, Rebecca Brant, and Sheril LaManna were chosen for the job of typing the stencil from which the Laurel Leaf was made. Efficient and speedy, the typists were always ready to take their turns to type the stencil.

During the year that the average foreign student spends in America, new friendships are made, unique experiences are shared, and better understanding is created between host and guest and their respective countries. If all goes well, Laurel Valley may have its first A. F. S. student next year. The official induction ceremony is conducted by previous members of the society: L. Bottegai, G. McClure, J. Hurt, J. Williams, R. Garland, B. Kline, K. Lick, L. Fulcomer.

Membership in the National Honor Society is regarded as one of the highest honors a high school student may receive. To qualify for membership the student must have the qualities of scholarship, character, leadership, and service. Upon their election to membership, new members are officially inducted into the society. One service rendered by the society is card showers to students who are hospital patients. Also, a new service this year which proved to be beneficial is the free coat checking service at all public school functions such as basketball games, plays, and concerts.

L. V.'s band is an organization every student can be proud of. At school performances or football games, the delightful music played has been prepared and rehearsed many times to give the listeners wonderful entertainment. Members practice many hours to achieve perfection. This gives them a great responsibility and devotion to the group. Under the direction of Mr. Gorirossi, the band has brought out the musical talents of many students and will continue the high quality of its performances.

The sparkling drum majorette, Corena Detwiler, led the band in colorful drill formations. During the early fall Corena stepped in at the last moment to take over this position and did an outstanding job.

The senior chorus meets twice a week to practice new songs for performances held annually. As they rehearse, the chorus blends soprano, alto, tenor, and bass tones into one melodious voice as they present many varied numbers. At Christmas-time the presentation of "Alleluia Chorus" has become a tradition. All who have been fortunate enough to sing under Mr. Hall's direction appreciate his musical talent.

When Mr. Hall tinkles forth a tune, everyone just naturally starts to hum to his musical notes.

in Chorus

Laurel Valley's music program is varied. Besides band and chorus, there are many different activities pertaining to both organizations where students may express their talents. Both band and chorus members know that practice is the key to success. By practicing, students can expect to be rewarded by attending county chorus and band, where they can display the talents L. V. appreciates.

FBLA--Commercial Students Anonymous

FBLA officers--Vicki Cavanaugh, reporter; Nancy Thiel, treasurer; Rex Garland, president; Rebecca Brant, secretary; and Gloria Jean Heming, vice-president.

In this organization a combination of commercial students join together to better the possibilities and heights that a student of the commercial field can reach. At the beginning of each school year, the FBLA quickly becomes engrossed in the projects to be entered in the regional contest. Every member is given a job to be performed and is expected to do it to the best of his ability. For the past three years Laurel Valley has placed first in the annual Regional III contest. Besides publishing the Laurel Leaf, the FBLA makes all the programs for activities held at L. V. and does the planning and typing for the many extras that are enjoyed by both faculty and students.

Mrs. Spory illustrated and explained the different stitches used in knitting. After learning to cast-on, knit, purl, increase, and decrease, the girls began their first projects. Starting with booties, mittens, and slippers, they progressed to sweaters and even afgans. This art of constructing textile fabrics by means of needles permits one to turn out fashioned articles of clothing which automatic machines cannot entirely duplicate.

During the 1965-66 school year the Varsity Club sold candy and potato chips at the home basketball games and sponsored dances after the Friday night games. They also held a sub sale and a car wash. By purchasing jackets, trophies, and awards, this club spent all their hard earned profits to benefit the school and to recognize outstanding athletes.

Drama Club performs behind footlights

Mrs. Peters and Carol Maier, president, discuss the lighting for the stage.

This year the Drama Club, sponsored by Mrs. Peters, was organized for students who are interested in the theatre. The group read and discussed plays and the technical problems involved in producing them. Junior members were active in their class production of "The Mouse that Roared."

The All Sports Club stresses the basic skills of co-ordination, precision, and timing in many sports. The group meets in the gym to play football, basketball, volleyball, soccer, snowball and ping-pong. Golf has recently been added to this list. Under Mr. Toy's supervision, the boys learn more about the great games and appreciate the skills needed to participate in these sports. Also Mr. Toy shows the players how to use and develop their skills in team games. The boys are to conduct themselves so that they will be a credit to these sports and to their high school.

The spirit of a school can hold victory or defeat in the balance. With a larger membership this year, the Pep Club is assigned the task of encouraging student support at all athletic events. Through attractive signs and frenzied pep rallies these loyal fans promote enthusiasm and develop student awareness.

Under the supervision of Miss Elder, these rooters traveled to the away football and basketball games to help the cheerleaders back our teams to victory. The participation at the home games is even greater. This year the Pep Club demonstrates spirit that will be remembered for a long time.

During a regular meeting, President Sally McCoy discusses plans for the Club's many activities.

Intramural Clubs learn rules

Clinton Bouch and Bill McCoy officiate in a basketball game as Pat Clark and Bob Hill get ready to jump.

In this club sponsored by Mr. Howard, the boys are given a chance to learn to officiate properly in games played at school. Also members gain added experience in basketball, snowball, and other sports. Through active participation in an intramural program, the boys acquire sportsmanship as well as physical and mental stamina.

Tom Lynn and Donald Fletcher don't seem too concerned about wrestling each other during a club period.

In the Athletic Club sponsored by Mr. Jones, the boys spend club meetings wrestling and lifting weights. This club stresses physical fitness. Members of FHA plan for the future

To help students further their interests in and develop an appreciation for the many joys and satisfactions of homemaking, the Future Homemakers of American is a group of busy service club members. Affiliated with both the state and national organizations, the club sponsors many local, state, and national projects that enable members to fulfill their ideals as builders of homes--homes for America's future. Advisor of the club is Mrs. Bennett. Officers are Pat Cramer, president; Donna Kastner, secretary; Karen Wakefield, treasurer; Rhonda Botteicher, historian; Michele Shaftic, reporter; Lynne Grasser, song leader; Jennifer Kokoruda, parliamentarian.

Row Five: R. Kelper, J. Treasure, R. Cunningham, J. Ritenour, Tim Bennett, J. Leydig.

The Basketball Club, whose sponsor is Mr. Pahach, is composed of seventh, eighth, and ninth grade boys who are out for basketball. Club membership leads to a better understanding of the game of basketball and encourages clean living and good sportsmanship through proper training and living habits. Also, it encourages boys to think of basketball as a possible vocation.

Here Mr. Pahach is giving some tips to Tom and Tim Bennett. These two boys are the only twins in L.V.'s history to play on the basketball team. They will continue to play starring roles on the hardwood court.

tudent Life

For this year's theme, the school has chosen "The Future is Now." This theme is a call to action for students to take control of their future and make the most of the present. The school has a variety of programs and activities that are designed to help students prepare for the future. These include career counseling, college preparation, and leadership training. The school also offers a variety of extracurricular activities that are designed to help students develop their skills and interests. These include sports, music, and art. The school is committed to providing a high-quality education for all students and to helping them prepare for the future.

Belles with Beaux danced

Lovely Carol Patterson was crowned Belle of the Ball.

All the world smelled of blossoming magnolias on the tender spring evening of May 14, 1965, as Laurel Valley Belles surried off with their Southern Gentlemen to the ball at the Laurel Plantation. There they danced and dined to the music of Tommy Phillips in a glittering ballroom of crystal and roses. At midnight the master threw open the doors to the main dining room where a most lavish feast was awaiting the guests. Afterward, sounds of admiration and awe could be heard echoing through the grand chamber as guests were charmed by the sand painting of artist Robert Cline. Once again, the guests returned to the ballroom where they danced till early morning to the elegant music of the Crystal Tones.

Too soon all was over, and couples paused in the archway to take a last look at fading silhouettes against a magnificent background of red and gold

Vocational Technical Education morning and afternoon classes in Latrobe are attended by Laurel Valley pupils. This special course provides extensive background information for those who plan to continue their education in engineering, scientific areas, and the industrial world. The courses include electronic and instrumentation technology, mechanical drafting and design technology, and metallurgical technology.

Student librarians receive fine training in library science. These assistants to Mrs. Lowry check books in and out, return books to their proper places, and keep the library in order. A librarian must give up his study halls to do this serviceable work.

Representing Laurel Valley at the Humanities Seminar held at the Greater Latrobe High School were Linda Bottegal, Carol Craig, Linda Fulcomer, and Gloria McClure. Alternate representatives were Dennis Clawson and Naida Karoly. The programs were held every Wednesday night during March and April. Well-known college professors discussed the importance and progress of subjects such as politics, physical fitness, religion, and drama.

Outstanding Seniors

Awards Day honored students

Suzanne Peach and Rodney Cunningham were presented the American Legion Auxillary Awards by Mrs. Oscar Carlson for being voted the outstanding eighth graders of 1965. The winners are chosen by the eighth grade class and members of the faculty.

The commercial section made a good showing at the area FBLA contest held in Punxsutawney last year. In the shorthand division Laurel Valley won "thumbs down" with Sheryl LaMantia taking first place, Candy Flickinger second, and Genevieve Reven third. Left to right: C. Flickinger, G. Reven, and S. LaMantia.

Mrs. Oscar Carlson presented cash prizes to winners of the American Legion Auxiliary essay contest. The essay title was "What Freedom in America Means to Me." The winners of senior high competition were Naida Karoly, first place; Judy Baldwin, second place. Junior high places went to Norma Shingler, first, and Tracy Miller, second. Here Naida, Norma and Tracy are comparing notes in the library.

Awards Day, May 21, 1965, honored those individuals who had tried throughout the year to give a little more of themselves to student life than was required. The awards were presented to those who had participated in essay contests, chorus, band, intramurals, and sports. Recognition was given for commercial and academic achievement.

Students were recognized with cash prizes, trophies, jackets, LV letters, certificates, and pins. The members of the Laurel staff were presented pins by Mrs. Chisnell. Sheila Zamiska officially presented the '65 edition of the Laurel to the student body.

This is the reason Mr. Howard pronounced Gary Henderson "most physically fit."

Lois McCreery easily took first place in the Punxsutawney bookkeeping competition.

Raymond Zufall and William Robinson, faithful members of the marching band, were absent when the band picture was taken.

"And-a 1, and -a 2,..." and out comes the "Big Band" sound of Laurel Valley's own jazz musicians. Every Wednesday night strains of Glenn Miller can be heard drifting through the empty halls when the group turns out for practice. Mr. Gorirossi is very proud of the Stage Band. Dixieland and conventional jazz are also played by the group. Their diverse repertoire was selected in an attempt to offer creative stimulation to the budding musicians by confronting them with both modern and classical types of jazz.

For Yuletide entertainment the Stage Band performed for the student body and the communities. The group played correlated music with the film strip "Born in a Manger." A popular group, the Stage Band is in great demand by many civic organizations. Spring was officially ushered in by the Stage Band at the Spring Concert. The musicians had several suitable selections for the occasion. Students participating in this talented group are very grateful to Mr. Gorirossi for giving his time and efforts for their enjoyment and musical advancement.

fitness and joy of good health

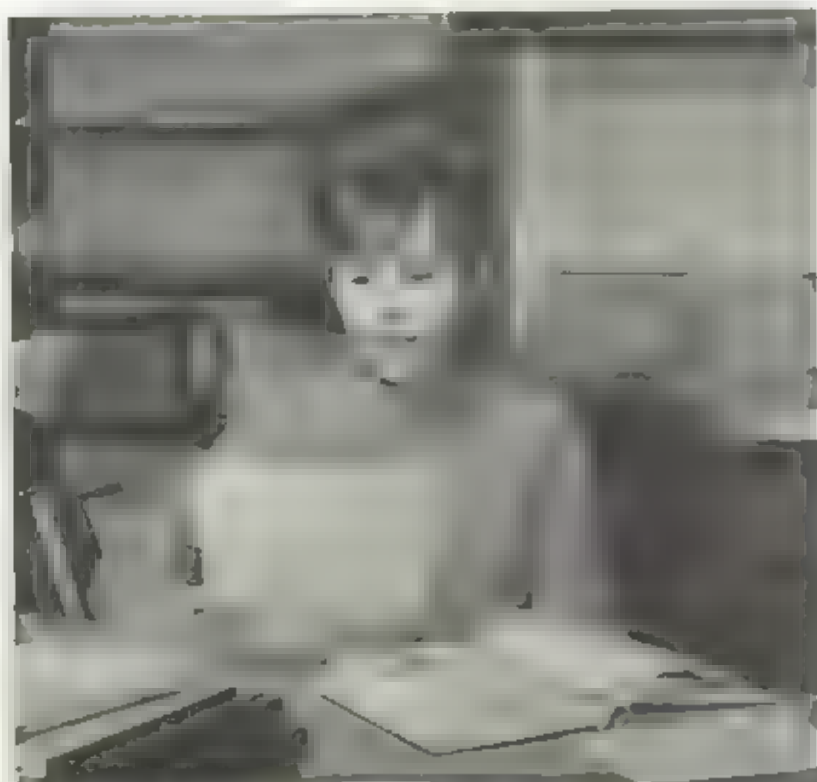

Miss Elder kept LV lasses at a mighty pace doing laps in gym class. Laps, exercises, and hikes in the fall made for year-round slim-trim figures. In the winter the girls bundled up for snow treks and snowball battles. In spring a young girl's fancy turns to softball. Muscles were in good tone for winding out those fast balls. Mr. Howard led LV lads through a merry year's whirl of push-ups, sit-ups, burpees, wrestling, tumbling, softball, snowball, kickball, and volleyball. Football and basketball played a major role in physical fitness. Strenuous workouts on the rings and parallel bars only made the boys come back for more. These enthusiastic students formed intramural teams.

Assistants and Attractions

Miss Pyle checks for punctuation, parallel structure, and paragraphing

A first at Laurel Valley was student teacher Miss Sandra Pyle. Attending Indiana University, Miss Pyle is majoring in English. During the last nine weeks of the first semester she taught the senior academic classes. A resident of Somerset, Miss Pyle has been accepted at the University of Toures in France where she will study French during 1966-67.

A student teacher's work is never done. Miss Antonacci can testify to this

Miss Victoria Antonacci was student teacher of the senior and sophomore commercials for the second semester. A senior at Indiana University, Miss Antonacci is majoring in English. She is a member of Phi Lambda Chi. A resident of Bethel Park, Miss Antonacci plans a career in teaching.

Laurel Valley students were delighted to see "The Vikings" do what they know best: entertain. These Norwegian folk dancers, coming all the way from Oslo, bring with them the color and charm of the Old World.

Tom Sellers and Janice Loughner rest under the boughs at the "Mistletoe Magic" semi-formal sponsored by the Student Council on December 23, 1965. Music was supplied by the Castaways. The proceeds went for lighting in the gym.

"Ohhhh, Todd!" The senior girls are left speechless after they cast their leery eyes over Todd Huey's portrait. Dave Kelly cannot see why all the fuss. The arrival of the seniors' pictures brought an end to months of anxiety and fear.

Capable staff members render students

Mrs. Galbraith, able cafeteria supervisor, checks the inventory against her supply list.

Five seconds to go, 4,3,2,1, ding-- lunch time! The happiest period of the day for Laurel Valley students. What makes this period so special? The hard work of five fine ladies who daily provide tasty and nutritious lunches for three hundred hungry students. The cafeteria staff always comes up with the hottest lunches in sub-zero weather and the most refreshing meals in those humid August afternoons. Each morning a count is taken by the homeroom teachers for the number of students eating in the cafeteria. The lunch periods consist of three sections beginning at 11:00 and ending at 1:09. The responsibility of planning and preparing the menu and ordering the supplies falls on the shoulders of Mrs. Galbraith.

CAFETERIA STAFF--Mrs. Clara Mae Galbraith, Mrs. Mary Burket, Miss Anna Mary Burkett, Mrs. Mary Gollis, and Mrs. Sophie Zufall.

special services

Because class plays, assemblies, and dances are held throughout the year, the advice and skills of the custodians are always in great demand. These good-natured men--Mr. Jobe, Mr. Lear, and Mr. Gable--help with the decorating for the proms. Besides preparing the building for everyday activities, they keep the school's facilities in good working condition. The blizzard of '66 in late January and early February kept Mr. Jobe on the move with the snowplow.

"Be prepared" might well be the motto for the contingent of L. V.'s bus drivers. These individuals are great favorites among all the students. In addition to being responsible for the students' safety, the bus drivers settle disputes, listen to complaints, and man the "lost and found."

Mr. Lear and Mr. Gable prepare the steel structure against winter snows with a new base coat of paint.

Everyone's favorite, "Ma" O'Shell, counts noses to make sure no student skips Vo-Tech classes.

Mr. Jobe checks his inventory lists for he knows that adequate supplies are necessary for efficient school maintenance.

The L. V. Rams were titled "under-dogs" at the start of the season! Even though they had few lettermen, they surprised their fans and critics. Their most impressive victory came at the hands of their arch-rival Ligonier. After being behind throughout most of the game, the Ram power machine started rolling, and when the final whistle sounded, the Rams emerged a 19-14 victor. In the end the Rams succeeded in compiling a 3-4-2 record.

Terry McMaster, Denny Shaulis, Bob Dick, Ken Dick, Jim Hurt, and Don Saltarelli served as co-captains this year. These were the six boys playing their final season for Laurel Valley.

Co-captain Tim Bennett, Captain Rodney Cunningham and Co-captain Jack Ritenour made sure that Mr. Toy's orders were carried out.

The enthusiastic Baby Rams, putting everything forth under the direction of Mr. Toy, came up with a fairly successful season. The team got off to a slow start against the powerhouse of Laura Lamar. In their next game Saltsburg barely won by 6-0. But in their third game the Rams started to move by over scoring Kiski Prep 20-7. Then the Rams met with Penns Manor and a severe defeat. Though the Rams fought hard, Ligonier won by six points. But in their last game the Little Rams came through with full force to defeat Saltsburg 51-6.

Though the Rams had three lettermen returning, they got off to a slow start. After the Rams started their league competition, they picked up steam and butted into the lead. Their only obstacle proved to be Nanty-Glo. With the defensive playing of Denny Clawson and Denny Shaulis, the rebounding ability of Jim Hurt, and the extra points of Ken Dick and Gary Sellers, the Rams proved challenging. Both of the most exciting games of the year were played away with Franklin and Adams. During the Franklin game, the score was nick and tuck the whole way. In the end during over time, the Rams won 53-49. At the Adams game the L. V. fans were starting to fear that the Rams would never get ahead. When the second half started, the Rams came alive. With the help of Denny Clawson and Jim Hurt, who made the winning basket, the Rams won 37-35 in the last two seconds of play.

victorious season

The Girls' Basketball team, the L. V. Ramettes, proved to be successful again this year. With the help of Miss Elder, Don Saltarelli, and Alan Rager, the girls learned a few more plays, which worked well against the opposing teams. The Varsity had a few close games during the season, but luckily they pulled through with flying colors. As an extra attraction, the Ramettes played Ligonier for the first time and were victorious in the contest. The Junior Varsity team played good games, considering the fact that this team, except for a few, started from scratch. Although the girls lacked height, they played as if they were six feet tall.

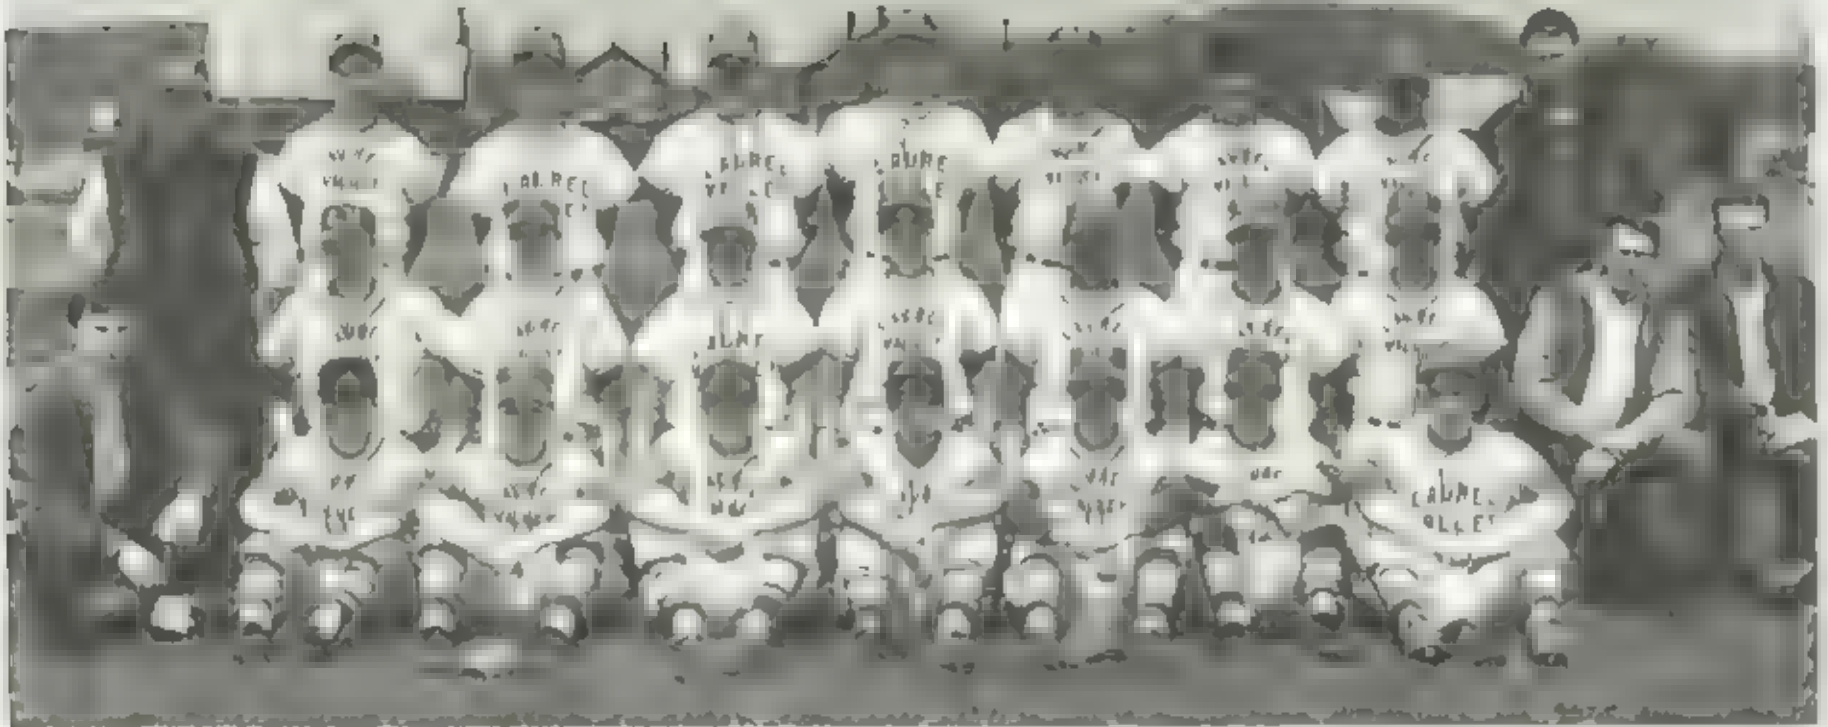

Don Saltarelli, Miss Elder, and Alan Rager coached the girls through a winning season.

The 1965 Rams found stiff competition in Tri-County League action. Westmont, Northern Cambria, Nanty Glo, Indiana, Marion Center, and Central Cambria provided this opposition for Mr. Gerald Page's Charges.

Although the Rams had a number of returning lettermen, things did not "Jive" until the latter part of the season. After dropping the first four, the Rams finally combined good pitching by Ken Pruitt and balanced team hitting for a 11-2 triumph over Marion Center. Three discouraging losses followed, but the fighting Rams were able to win the last two games and complete the season with a 3-7 record. Sophomore, Fred Clark, picked up both of these victories--an 8-0 win over Marion Center and a 7-5 triumph over Nanty Glo.

J. V. Cheerleaders

Cute, cool, classy--Varsity Cheerleaders

Enthusiasm is their trademark; service their goal. The cheerleaders sway the crowd to frenzied excitement or subdue it to an attitude of good sportsmanship. Led by Karen Bechtold, they have provided spirit at pep rallies, flash on the basketball court, and vivacity on the football field.

At the end of the summer, the girls begin to plan new cheers, look for new ideas, and work on old ones. With Miss Elder's guidance, the '66 cheerleaders always perform in good taste and represent Laurel Valley well.

Intramurals provide competition

Karen Ferri, Cathy Ressler, Marsha Kimes, Norma Shingler, Elaine Wagner, Kathy Nixon, Georgianna Miller, Debbie Antonio, Sally Stewart, Virginia Clark, and Iva

Toth are the members of the senior high girls' Championship Intramural team.

In order to stimulate competition, intramurals are offered which teach good sportsmanship and team work. Both boys and girls participate in these fields of competition: snowball, basketball, and baseball. At the beginning of the school year, friends join together to make up a team. Then, throughout the year during each eighth period various teams meet in the gym to play ball under the supervision of Miss Elder and Mr. Howard. These games are refereed by members of the Intramural Club. The intramural program is divided into two sections, junior and senior high. Each section has its own championship team. In the senior high girls' division the "Thunderbirds" was a representative team in the snowball, basketball, and softball intramurals. These girls provided challenging competition in all sports to make for a competitive season. When it came to boys' competition, the "7-Ounces" succeeded in winning the title of "champions." Though it was a fight to the finish, the "7-Ounces" showed the most sportsmanship, skill, and teamwork to win the basketball championship. At the end of the snowball season, the winners were the "Chasers" who had provided stiff competition for all the other snowball teams since they won all their games. Therefore, the "Chasers" were the undisputed champs. These teams will be recognized with letters, pins, or certificates on Awards Day for their championship playing.

Class Officers--Peggy Collins, treasurer; Steve Peters, president; Carol Maler, secretary; Stan Silk, vice-president.

Centering most of the activities in homerooms 202, 210, 211, 214, and 215, the juniors collected dues and planned various activities. The operation of the concession stand was an enjoyable experience shared with the sponsors--Mrs. Spory, Mr. Perian, and Mr. Allen. Throughout the year many long hours were spent to raise money for the attractive Junior-Senior Prom, "Three Coins in a Fountain." The successful dance on January eighth, and the Class Play on February twenty-fifth contributed to this gala affair. On September 16, 1965, the Juniors received their most prized possession--classrings. This class will be remembered for humor and spirit in the halls and for participation in sports, band, chorus, and clubs.

Sophomores find their potentialities

Class Officers--Linda Neldbanson, secretary; Linda Reed, treasurer; Janis Wagner, vice-president; Gary Henderson, president.

Homerooms 201, 203, 212, and 215 are the centers of the energetic sophomores' activities. Their lively spirits and keen interests show not only in their homework and classwork but also in sports, band, chorus and Student Council. Under the direction of their sponsors--Mrs. Peters, Mr. Lute, and Mr. Bryson--these creative students held a gala dance on February 12. The profits will be saved to help pay for their junior prom.

At the close of the year these students can recall many memories they have shared during their sophomore year.

Freshmen study in new areas

Class Officers: John Ritenour, treasurer; Robin Robertson, president; Linda Rowland, vice-president. ABSENT: Paul Hughes, secretary.

Since the freshmen were introduced to several new subjects this year, they spent many hours on their homework. When not studying, these students could be found at the football field or at the basketball court. Others participated in band, chorus, and clubs. Four of the girls were peppy cheerleaders. Under the guidance of Mrs. Bauman, Mr. Hiner, and Mr. Irwin, the class planned for their dance which was held in March. Because the names of many freshmen could be found on the honor roll, these students have set up standards which will benefit them in their later years.

With the addition of the new language laboratory, these freshmen enjoy their Spanish classes and benefit from Miss Long's instructions.

Eighth Graders look toward the future

Gym class is a time to relax and discuss the day's activities. Taking a short break before class begins.

These girls will soon be involved in a vigorous game of volleyball, softball or basketball.

Eighth grade officers: Denise Shavlis—Vice-President, William Hurt—President, Sharon Repak—Treasurer, and Barbara Peach—Secretary.

Occupying homerooms 101, 110, and 111, the eighth graders began the year with enthusiasm and spirit. Studies in English, American history, math, and science presented them with new challenges as well as reviewing basic skills. Music, art, and physical education added new interests to their day. Preparing well balanced meals and constructing fashionable clothing became the main objective of the girls in their home ec classes. The boys soon became skilled craftsmen by using the various tools in their industrial arts class. The eighth graders showed an active interest in school activities by regular attendance at clubs, sports events, intramural games, band, and chorus. At a successful dance held in the late fall, everyone had a wonderful time. As part of school life, they planned and decorated the bulletin board in the main lobby for November 15.

In September the high school once again welcomed a new group of smiling seventh grade students, reminding others of their first year at L. V. The first few weeks may have been different from what they had expected, but gradually the seventh graders became acquainted with each other and formed many new friendships. Besides working and studying in the classroom, some of the students became members of the band and chorus. Others started intramural teams for the first time. Participating in these extracurricular activities gave them a sense of responsibility that they will need throughout the rest of their lives. It was also a year for fun and excitement, as many of the students found, when a seventh grade dance was held in late winter. Sponsors were Mrs. Lowry, Mr. Flickinger, and Mr. McCreery.

ALMA MATER

Where the mountains meet the valleys
And the skys are changeless blue,
Stands our noble Alma Mater,
Laurel Valley proud and true.

All hail to Laurel Valley,
We love thee evermore
And when we need your guidance,
You'll have an open door.

Study halls are a time for deep concentration. Here Carol Luther, Andrea Cunningham, Carol Rummel and Suann Waddell attempt to solve difficult problems.

Gladys Gross, Carol Rummel, Carol Craig, and Andrea Cunningham could have never completed their yearbook pages without the help of Gary Sellers, Norm Kaufman, and Terry McMaster.

"Wagons ho, and off we go!" Rex Garland removes a weed from his pocket—one of the miseries of a hayride. Although it was fun, the seniors had a "seedy" appearance for weeks to follow.

"Things go better with coca-cola! Please won't you buy a coke?" These distracted juniors tried their best to answer the demands of the fans. The concession stand crew sold hot dogs, sauerkraut, potato chips, candy, and coffee to help pay prom costs.

"Hayride, get aboard the wagon..." Sentimental Seniors banded together for a night of fun and frolic under the stars. This picture was taken following a hectic hay-throwing battle. Bill McCoy refuses to surrender so Jim Reed makes him eat his words.

Gloria Rummel studies in the quiet of homeroom

Chad Cook, Carol Maier, and Eddie Killen "ham it up" at Junior Play practice.

Edgar Gates spots for batman Bill McCoy.

John Wagner takes the ball on N. Silk, C. Mundorf, S. Wadler, D. Zapata, A. Stewart, J. Wagner, L. Pajdak, I. Nordhanson, and C. Fish.

For two years the series sought the strongest candidates to help them lay necessary foundations for their career. To assist marketing majors we, the class of '00, gave our opinions. How did: D. Clawson, P. Fink, W. Moore, G. Sellers, P. W. Lee, N. Faxon, C. Gray, D. Marshall, M. Jones, G. Gross, G. Butler, M. J. Wang, S. M. Jones, C. F. Foster, J. Adams, B. Johnson, L. Johnson, C. J. Lee, P. Lee, N. Lee, R. Lee, J. Gray, P. Russell, T. Mc Lester, S. Hurrell, A. Cunningham, C. Rimmel.

Congratulations to the class of "1966"

And Remember--

It is not the critic who counts, nor the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena; whose face is marred by dust and sweat; who strives valiantly; who errs and may fail again, because there is no effort without error or shortcoming, but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who does know the great enthusiasm, the great devotion; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory or defeat.
